

Abstract of the Disclosure

An audio mixing console that comprises at least one input connector for receiving a video signal for broadcast; at least one input connector for receiving an audio signal; a control panel that includes a plurality of user operable audio channel controls; a signal 5 processing unit for generating an audio output signal; and at least one display monitor integral to the audio console for displaying a video signal for broadcast.